As Camp Chief I am delighted to welcome you here to the 38th Scottish International Patrol Jamborette. It is an absolutely glorious day and it was fantastic to meet you all in person when you arrived at the camp at the beginning of 11 days of adventure and activity.

Coming to Highland Perthshire to be a part of the Blair Atholl Jamborette is a fantastic opportunity and I can tell that you are all going to make the most of that. There are activities and events on offer for all but most importantly, there is fun to be had and friendships to be made which may last a lifetime.

The volunteer staff have been working hard for the past 5 days to build the Scouting village you see around you. It's amazing to think that Target Park was an empty field only a few days ago.

We have 84 patrols from across Scotland on site and have already been joined by a patrol from Northern Ireland. Tomorrow we see the arrival of overseas guests from 13 countries and I'm certain that you will make them welcome as they have travelled far to an unfamiliar place. A smile, a handshake and a bit of chat about yourself goes a long way. A language barrier can be overcome with a few hand signals, gestures and a maybe even your favourite translation app! The friendships that you make on this 'field of dreams' will last for a lifetime.

As one of the first large scale Scouting events in Scotland and the first International Scouting event in the UK since the pandemic began, I know that the experience might feel overwhelming for some. Don't worry if that's how you feel, there are excellent staff on the Subcamps and our welfare team are there to support you.

You are now part of a tradition that extends back to 1946 when the first camp was held, meaning you are now part of the Blair Atholl family. It's your enthusiasm that will make the Jamborette special for you and many others and I hope that this will be your first two weeks of many spent in the grounds of Blair Atholl Castle.

Make sure you take time to look after yourself, stay safe in the sun, get enough sleep, eat well, wash your hands often and if you feel unwell, let the Subcamp staff know.

When I met you at the gate, I asked you to stop me and tell me your favourite part about the camp when we meet. I hope that I get to hear from as many of you as possible.

Remember to follow @BAJamborette.

Midnight: How do dragons blow out candles??

Nasa reported a bright light shining up from Scotland from 9 am this morning. On further investigation from the International Space Station, it turned out to be the reflected glow of thousands of peely-wally Scottish folk trying to get a tan as the Sun came out. Their bodies were so pale that they reflected the sunlight back into space when they took their tops off, creating a phenomenon known as Peelywally Glare
